Overview

After 20 years of day trading experience in all markets, Dr. Vance Cast PhD has identified the ideal trading platform that can be highly profitable utilizing simple techniques. Delta Trading Group specializes in trading the S&P 500 E-mini which is a Futures Product based on the S&P 500.

Delta Day Traders specialize in only one product and therefore do not need to memorize or learn complex trading theories that can take years to learn at a college or university.

By using Price Action Trading to trade the S&P E-Mini futures, we can use simple technical analysis. And because the S&P mini already gauges public sentiment, we do not need to do any fundamental analysis or factor in public sentiment because it is all inclusive in the price.

The benefit of trading the S&P E-Mini in the futures market is that we can use Price Action Trading. So if you understand how an auction works and how price action works within an auction, then you can very easily trade and be very profitable without the cumbersome overhead that a lot of people use to complicate their trading.

Dr. Vance has spent 20 years removing the complexity in trading so traders can get down to the fundamentals.

If you appreciate what you hear or see today during the meet-up, schedule a live-action trading session to experience first-hand the simplicity and profitability of trading with Dr. Vance Cast and The Delta Trading Group.

- Adobe Connect will not load: You may need to try another browser or install the latest version of Flash
- You can’t get the file download: This is usually because of pop-up blockers.

When we keep track of trades we talk about points. Each dollar movement in the price of the stock is 1 point. Each contract is $50. So if we gain +4 points on 1 contract the net gain = $200.

5 contracts (4 point gain) = $1,000

As a courtesy to others, DTG members usually do not talk about how many contracts they are trading as it can be awkward to others.

Dr. Cast spent the last two decades continuing to develop and refine his simple, “Think in Crayon”, Delta 1-2-3 type trades that allow for easy entry into winning trades.

This means anyone can learn to enter winning trades very quickly with one simple trade strategy.

DELTA 123 TURN AROUND (D123T) WITH TREND (90min EMA)

Three Elements make the Trade, like the three corners of the delta.

STEP 1. Auction Indecision Symbol that alerts trader to change in price direction (Doji, Pin Bar, Double Bar, Pivot Point, and Turning Point).

STEP 2. Turnaround Signal (A ball that represents a change in power between the buyer and seller gives permission for trade)

Turnaround Signal (Permission to Trade)

STEP 3. Manage Trade with Risk/Money Management Principles.

- Direction of Trend
- Make trade after a pullback (Retracement - 30% - 50%)
- Note the headroom for the trade
 - Cloudy Stop?
 - Room for Target Profit?).
